Argo is an international program that uses profiling floats to observe temperature, salinity, currents, and, recently, bio-optical properties in the Earth's oceans; it has been operational since the early 2000s. The real-time data it provides is used in climate and oceanographic research. A special research interest is to quantify the ocean heat content (OHC).

Biology is the natural science that studies life and living organisms, including their physical structure, chemical processes, molecular interactions, physiological mechanisms, development and evolution. Despite the complexity of the science, there are certain unifying concepts that consolidate it into a single, coherent field. Biology recognizes the cell as the basic unit of life, genes as ...

1. Introduction " Marine heatwaves and their ecological impact. Ecosystems around the world have responded to anthropogenic climate change, with major implications for ecological goods and services (Rosenzweig et al., 2008). Links between a changing climate, shifts in species distributions, and the structure of communities and ecosystems have been documented convincingly for many taxa across ...
