An artificial neural network is a network of simple elements called artificial neurons, which receive input, change their internal state (activation) according to that input, and produce output depending on the input and activation.. An artificial neuron mimics the working of a biophysical neuron with inputs and outputs, but is not a biological neuron model.

SAX is the first symbolic representation for time series that allows for dimensionality reduction and indexing with a lower-bounding distance measure.

Face Recognition ¶. Face recognition is an easy task for humans. Experiments in have shown, that even one to three day old babies are able to distinguish between known faces. So how hard could it be for a computer? It turns out we know little about human recognition to date.

Summary In this talk I begin noticing that while ignoring the crucial role of temporal coherence, the formulation of most of nowadays current computer vision recognition tasks leads to tackle a problem that is remarkably more difficult than the one nature has prepared for humans.

The Ramer–Douglas–Peucker algorithm, also known as the Douglas–Peucker algorithm and iterative end-point fit algorithm, is an algorithm that decimates a curve composed of line segments to a similar curve with fewer points.

Reidenbach et al. discover small-molecule and lipid ligands for the atypical kinase-like protein COQ8 that enhance its ATPase activity. They develop an analog-sensitive version of COQ8 that can be covalently inhibited, enabling acute inhibition of COQ8 ATPase activity in vitro and coenzyme Q biosynthesis in vivo.

Protection from the high impedance fault (HIF) has been one of the biggest challenges in the power distribution network. HIF typically occurs when the conductors in distribution network break and touch the ground surface; or lean and touch a tree branch.
