The Tower of London The Tower of London was built in 1078 by William the Conqueror. He ordered the construction of the fortress to protect the Normans from the native English and symbolize his power. Throughout history the ever-expanding tower was used as a royal palace, an arsenal, a mint (i.e. a place where money is made) and even a zoo.
